ACTOR O'CONNOR MUST PAY

JUSTICE CLANCY DECIDES AGAINST HIM THIS MORNING.

Revelations Made in Court-An Actor Who Played Half a Dozen Parts and Made the Contumes as Well-O'Conner's Acting as a Tragedian and as a Lawyer on a Par-Mrs. O'Couner Testifies.

That James Owen O'Connor has acknowledged himself a crushed tragedian and forsworn the footlights and the reception of cabbages and back-number eggs over them, sworn the footlights and the reception of cabbages and back-number eggs over them, was evidenced by his appearance in Justice Clancy's Second District Civil Court this morning to defend the action brought by his company for unpaid salaries.

He did not stalk in a lordly fashion, but came in quietly, with his wife on his arm, and sat down with her at the table reserved for counsel, until the great mass of business on the calendar was disposed of. A stubbed growth of black beard had been blooked out on the tragedian's cheeks and upper lip.

He had from a bad actor become, if possible, a worse lawyer, as he proved very quickly when the case of Griffin against O'Connor was called.

Lawyer Sullivan amended his complaint, alleging a breach of contract, instead of claiming for work, labor and services rendered, whereupon Mr. O'Connor arose and said that, while he had the greatest respect for Justice Clancy and his court, he thought the case of sufficient importance to be tried in a court of record, and he therefore moved that it be sent to the Court of Common Pleas.

As the lawyer-tragedian had not complied with the provisions of the code which requires a bond to be given for such transfer of a case. Justice Clancy promptly denied his motion and ordered the case to trial.

Walter Stevens, one of O'Connor's company, was the first to take the stand and swear that there is due him $37.50 for two weeks' salary and board. He had not performed any services during those two weeks, because the company did not play. He held Shylock to his bond, however, and produced a contract which promised it him.

O'Connor's cross-examination of the witness was rambling and pointless, consisting of speeches to the court and reporters.

He intimated that Stevens was not an actor, whereupon Counsellor Sullivan suggested that he might have become a good one under the tutilage of O'Connor.

Linden Clark claimed $33.50 his due, and told of his being paid by the tragedian two the track heavy.

First in order was the trotting off of the 2.35 class, postponed from yesterday. Cyclone won the heat and race easily in 2.32½, Rixdorf second, Lambert Hell third, Nicotee fourth. Pools sold: Cyclone, $35; field, $25.

L. L. A., Bliry Kedon and Raven were drawn in the 2.25 pacing class. Heerin was the favorite in the noois, at $25 to $10 on the field. After a dozen attempts at a score, they got away, with Jennie R. at the poie. Heerin took it away from her immediately, and drew away beautifully for a quarter, when he went into the air. Frank W. Inlashed first. Mutuels paid $11.

Second Heat.—Pools—Heerin, $25; field, $22. Heerin took the pole at the first turn and held it through. Frank W. pulled up nose and nose with hilm at the three-quarter pole, but never passed him. Mutuels paid $1.0 in.

Third Heat—In the betting Indiren was the favorite by $30 to $10 on the field. Mutuels paid $7.60.

Fourth Heat.—Nobony could be found to place any money against Inderin, and Auctioneer Herdick was idle. The favorite made the circuit without going skyward once, and won the heat and race. Frank W. got second money, Grand See. third money and Jersey Boy fourth money.

For the first heat in the inree-munute class Ella, Electric and King Bird were drawn. Pools—Mount Morris, $19; neid, $35. In the first attempt to score Dan T. collided with Black Eagle, and the result was a jumbled mass of broken sulkies, man and horse on the track and the runnaway of Dan T. to the stables. Nobody injured. Dan T. held the pole to the quarter, but the favorite, Mount Morris, took it there and held it to the finish, winning on a jog. Mutuels paid $5.40.

Becond Heat.—Mount Morris appeared to be booked for a sure winner, for betting on the result had cessed, Mount Morris won the heat and race as a trace and the favorite was the favore heats.

the tutilage of O'Connor.

Linden Clark claimed $83.50 his due, and told of his being paid by the tragedian two weeks' additional salary at the close of last season to show that such contracts were cusseason to show that such contracts were customary.

"Aren't you the fellow who was continually breaking me up on the stage and coming to use in the wings and apologizing for your incompetency?" asked the actor-lawyer, and that was the extent of his cross-examination.

"Pardon me if I am a little rusty. I haven't practised in eight years." he re-T. took second money. Red Star third and Black Eagle fourth.

It began to rain again as the borses were called out for the event of the day—the 2. 22 class. Col. Wood was the favortie in the betting at $50 to $50 on the field. Rex drew the pole with Aleryon and T. T. S. for neighbors. Aleryon took the inside at the Brat turn, but Col. Wood passed him before the quarter and kept it to the wire, winning sands down, three lengths ahead. Mutuels paid $11.60. Second Hest—Col. Wood had it all his own way. Mutuels paid, $6.10. Pools sold, $60 to $28, Wood against field.

haven't practised in eight years," he re-marked to the Court as another of his sup-porting company came to the stand. John K. Newman testified that he played three or four characters every night, a 1 his employer's cross-questioning brought out the fact that he also made the company's employer's cross-questioning brought out the fact that he also made the company's costumes.

Edwin Barry, the leading man, took the stand, and proved his claim of $37.50. He has been on the stage twenty-one years, and Mr. O'Connor said that he is the son of the late Edwin Forrest.

"I have nothing to say against this descendant of one of the world's greatest tragedians," said the ex-tragedian, grandiloquently. "I have found him to be the best Shakespearian reader in the country."

"You have received a fine compliment, if not your money," smilingly remarked Judge Clancy, as the witness stepped down.

Richard Griffin, the plaintiff, to whom was assigned the several claims of the other actors, proved his claims and the assignment.

Jessie Villars's claim was proven by Stevens and then the tragedian placed his wife, Louise, on the stand.

She claimed that she had been mobbed by the company at the Alman House, and was forced to pay them $300. According to her version of the case the actors owed her husband a week's salary each overpaid.

The defendant then made a speech in version of the case the actors owed her husband a week's salary each overpaid.

The defendant then made a speech in which he asked Judge Clancey to pay no attention to the remarks concerning His Honor assigned to him by the press. He had never made them. He had too great respect for the court to ridicule it.

"And as for my company," he continued, "they may impuge my ability as an actor, but not my honor as a manager."

The tragedian did not take the stand to deny any of the testimony for the plaintiff, but walked out proclaiming his confidence in the Court, which promptly entered up judgment against him for $220 damages and $17.50 costs.

O'Connor will have to enswer in an action brought by another member of his com-brought by another member of his com-pany, Emma Young Crosbie, before Justice Dean, on the 26th.

A Good Investment

A Good Investment
Is that which yields large returns from a small outlay. Reader, the way is clear? No speculation, no chance, big returns? If you at like most of mankind you have somewhere a weakness—don't feel at all times just as you'd like to—headache to-day, backache to-morrow, down sick next week—all because your blood is out of order. A small outlay and what large returns? You invest in Dr. Pirror's Golden Manical Discovery and soon pure, fresh blood courses through your veins and you are another being.

HARMONIOUS DEMOCRATS.

Delegates Cheses at Harrisburg Go

Harrisburg, May 23.—The Democratic State Convention met here at 10.80 o'clock to-day, and W. U. Hensel, of Lancaster, without opposition, was made temporary Chairman. He made a very able speech, saying that this day marks a new birth in the party in Pennsylvania. His references to tariff reform and to President Cleveland and his administration, and reference to the late Samuel J. Tilden, were received with hearty outbursts of applause.

The convention promises to be thoroughly harmonious one. There will be no opposition to Congressman Scott, ex-

no opposition to Congressman Scott, excongressman Mutchler, ex-Attorney-General Cassidy and Chas. E. Boyle. The platform will be adopted late this afternoon, and the following plank is embodied in it:

"That revision of the tariff laws is necessary, with a view to their simplification, the correction of their incongruities and inequalities. The regulation of duties in such manner as will put industry on a firm and permanent basis, by covering the difference between wages in this country and in foreign countries. The abolition of taxes on raw materials for manufacturers, and the relief of the people from useless and onerous taxes, and from extortions by trusts and monopolies controlling the prices of the common necessaries of life. That to this end and that labor may be the more effectually protected in the enjoyment of its earnings, and in steadiness and continuity of employment; we give our most hearty and most emphatic indorsement to the recommendations of President Cleveland's lest annual message to Congress.
and as in line with the principles laid down in that message; we commend to Congress the prompt adoption of the revenue bill reported from the Committee on Ways and Means, and urge the Democratic Representatives in Congress from this State to give it their earnest and undivided support."
Thes remainder of the platform treats Means, and urge the Democratic Representatives in Congress from this State to give it their earnest and undivided support." Thes remainder of the platform treats of public lands for actual settlement by citizens of the United States, and will also set forth that the surplus in the Treasury should be applied to the public debt; that the Democratic party favor just and liberal pensions and so on.

One of the resolutions instructs the delegation to vote for the renomination of President Cleveland.

seems to be in constant dread of violence, is exciting the interest of the Bellevus physicians.

The woman was brought to the hospital in a cab at about 7 o'clock last evening. She would not answer any of the questions put to her by the clerk, but it was said she was a "Mrs. Johnson."

She was neatly dressed and wore three rings on her fingers. One was a wedding ring and the two others were jewelled. There was a wild look in the woman's eyes and she shrank fearfully from any one's touch.

When Registrar Michael F. Rickard took hold of the rubber speaking-tube to bring the doctor down, the woman sent forth a picreing shrick and crounded in a corner of the room, crying pitifully: "Don't kill me, dear; don't kill me."

Dr. Stuart Douglas found that the woman was about to become a mother and she was sent to the medical ward, but m a short time she became so violent that she had to be removed to the insane pavilion. She is thought to be a Swede, but though spoken to in the Swedish. French, Russian, English and German languages she will give no information about herself.

The woman was taken to the hospital by Mrs. Lizzie Werner, a milwife, of 338 East Nineteenth street. The latter mays the woman was brought to her house yesterday morning by a man with a black mustache and beard, whose name is Jansen or Johnson, and who, she thinks, is a mate on a vessel lying in a Brooklyn dock.

He said the woman was his wife and he wanted her taken care of till her beby was born. Mrs. Werner said she would charge $20 for her services and the man paid her $10, saying he would return to day with the rest. Mrs. Werner had seen the man before. In March last year he made a similar arrangement in regard to another woman whom he said he would send there, but she never came.
